

MRS. STILLMAN TO TELL WHOLE STORY

Will Be Called to the Witness
Stand and Not Dodge Questions, Counsel Says.

BEAUVAIS MAY TESTIFY

Defence Expected to Close Its Case Oct. 1—Hearings Resumed Next Wednesday.

Mrs. Anne Urquhart Potter Stillman will take the witness stand in her defence of the divorce suit brought by her husband. It was stated positively yesterday. Among other things, she will enter strong denials to the allegations of intimacy with Fred K. Beauvais, the Indian guide named as correspondent by the banker. Beauvais, it also was said, may be given an opportunity to clear his name before the hearings come to an end about October 1.

Mrs. Stillman at present is in Lake Forest, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, and is not expected to appear Wednesday at Poughkeepsie when hearings in the suit are to be resumed before Referee Daniel J. Gleason. The defence, it is thought, will open a week from to-morrow, but Mrs. Stillman will not be placed on the witness stand until September at the earliest. Mrs. Stillman will not fall back on her constitutional rights, as did her husband, a reliable informant states, and refuse to answer questions on the ground that it might tend to incriminate her.

Beauvais has been clamoring for an opportunity to be called for several months, and the lawyers for Mrs. Stillman are now reported to be more inclined to call him as a witness than at any time since the suit was started. From a person close to counsel for the defence comes word that if hearings are held on the five days stipulated in this month and during September the defence will rest its case by October 1. Referee Gleason then would be able to render his decision, which it is thought would be handed to Supreme Court Justice Morechauser about November 1.

Friday was the first anniversary of the serving of the summons and complaint on Mrs. Stillman as she was about to sail for Europe aboard the steamship Olympic.

An all day conference of Mrs. Stillman's lawyers and of John E. Mack, guardian of Guy Stillman, will be held to-morrow in the office of John F. Brennan in Yonkers.

RED AND SKINNY PLAY GAME OF BURGLARS

Enter House Through Roof;
Now They're Locked Up.

Red Gardner and Skinny Jeffs invented a new game yesterday. Red and Skinny are each 9 years old and live at 953 and 955 St. Mark's avenue, Brooklyn. Since school closed last week they have grown tired of playing "Indian" and "cowboy" and "detective," so yesterday, the police say, Red suggested that they play "burglar."

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon John Bliss, of 955 St. Mark's avenue reported to the police that his home had been broken into and that two ladders, a gold watch and chain, a gold cigarette case and a child's toy bank containing a few pennies, all valued at about $500, had been stolen.

Detectives Fennelly and Beckinger were inclined to think it was an inside job until one of the neighbors remembered he had seen two small boys, one of them red haired, on the roof of the Bliss house. All the small boys in the block were rounded up and, in spite of his indignant denials, Red was taken to the police station.

For almost two hours Red stoutly maintained his innocence, but when the detectives accused him of being "mean" to rob the baby's bank, it is said he exclaimed: "I didn't steal the bank. Skinny took it."

That spilled the beans and then Red confessed, according to the police, that they had broken into Mr. Bliss's house through the skylight. Red and Skinny were entered on the police blotter as Edward J. Gardner and Earl C. Jeffs. The loot, it is alleged, was found in Red's cellar. The boys will be arraigned to-morrow in Children's Court.

JUDGE TAKES BAD CHECK.

Magistrate William A. Sweetser appeared in court yesterday as complainant against Frank A. Dearborn, a writer of Boston, who Mr. Sweetser told Magistrate Eyteneberg in Town Hall Court, "trimmed" him out of $500 on a worthless draft.

Dearborn formerly had office space in Mr. Sweetser's office at 124 Broadway. He disappeared after Mr. Sweetser cashed the check, but was traced through his connection with a New York newspaper.
